Proactive Care

Supporting people with long-term health conditions or complex health and social care needs

A PARTNERSHIP

We know that when you are unwell or need support with daily living, you usually want to be cared for where you live, surrounded by the familiar things you know.

It's important you get the right help and support to continue to live as independently as possible for as long as possible.

Your local health and social care services are now working together in new ways to help make this happen.

We call this new way of working Proactive Care.

Caring for you – proactively

What is Proactive Care?

Proactive Care is the new way that we support people who have complex long-term health conditions and social care needs.

These may include:

- Chronic illnesses such as diabetes, dementia, asthma or heart disease.
- Needing help with daily living, getting up, going to bed, washing or making a meal.

How does it work?

We have set up dedicated Proactive Care teams made up of professionals such as community matrons, nurses, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, pharmacists and social workers.

They will work closely with you, and with your carers, your GP, the staff at your local hospital and others in your community to ensure you get the right support at the right time.

Team members will usually be based together, which means they can share information more quickly and work together more easily.

They can make plans with you and your carers for your future care if your condition gets worse – and hopefully avoid you having to go to hospital for treatment.

If you have such needs, then Proactive Care is the practical way we will look after you.

Our aim is very simple, to put you at the centre of what we do and meet all of your health and care needs as effectively as possible.

They can review any medication you might be taking, and work with your GP to make any changes if necessary.

They can give you and your carers the information and support you might need to help you care for yourself.

In these ways we can support you to continue living as independently as possible for as long as possible.

We see Proactive Care as the best way to meet all of your health and care needs. But if you don't want to us to manage your care through our Proactive Care approach please tell any member of our team.
